About Robby "Zero Angel" Richardson:

Robert Richardson was born and raised in Ohio, but from a very early age, he always lived in a fantasy world of one sort or another. Daunted by the sheer number of Robert Richardsons in America, he adopted the pseudonym Zero Angel to distinguish himself from the others. He graduated from Youngstown State University with a degree in mathematics before returning for his master's degree. He teaches math part-time while spending the rest of his time pursuing adventures in the world of War of the Ages and spending time with his future wife, Samantha.

About Zero Angel's War of the Ages:

War of the Ages (WotA) is a fantasy multiverse with dozens of short stories and full-length novels planned. WotA was created painstakingly over the course of ten years. The current published multiverse includes six complete universes with dozens of planets and hundreds of creatures. Each creature and event in the WotA multiverse has been made by asking "How can that exist?" and then following the lines of logic that come from that with frequently surprising results.

About ApocalypseDesigns.com
